VOL. 92, NO. 127 $2 A MONTH TUESDAY, JUNE 28, 1977 PLEASANTON, CALIFORNIA

"The house of a million - and - one things to see and do!"

That's the 65th edition of the Alameda County Fair that opened for its first full day Monday 'neath sunny skies.

And with horse racing back again after a one-year strike induced absence, turnstiles were humming merrily shortly after the 10 a.m. daily opening.

Today is Fremont Day, Albany Day and the second in a series of half-price family nights. All admissions are half-price after 5 p.m. Regular admission prices are $2 for adults and 50 cents for children 6-15.

Opening day Sunday drew 15,222.

With racing underway and the professional stage shows scheduled each evening at 7 and 9 p.m., daily crowds in excess of 25,000 are expected to tax surrounding parking lots and streets.

For the third consecutive year, the Maid of Pleasanton representative captured the Maid of Alameda County title. Jori Alexander, a recent graduate of Foothill High School, won the title Sunday night and will represent the county in the Maid of California Pageant at Cal Expo in late August.

Jori's Pleasanton - Alameda County title predecessors were Julie Hemming, who presented the tiara and sash Sunday, and Lori Hickman.

Valley beauties almost made it a clean sweep of awards as Rebecca Eveleth, Maid of Dublin, was named first runnerup. Donna Jean Rauland, Maid of Fremont, won the title of Miss Congeniality.

Jori, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Alexander of Sierrawood Lane, is the second Alexander to win the Pleasanton title and go on to the Alameda County pageant. Two years ago, older sister Teresa was named Maid of Pleasanton.

The second day of racing has a 1:30 p.m. first post time, the same as the remainder of the week.

Jori Alexander of Pleasanton was crowned Maid of Alameda County Sunday evening at the Alameda County Fair, the third consecutive Pleasanton woman to win the award.

Condos stalled on 2-2 vote

PLEASANTON — Page Binkley's half - a - loaf turned out to be somewhat less than none.

He won a twisted, hard - fought victory from city council last night to establish a negative environmental impact report for his proposed 28 unit condominium development on Black Avenue and Hopyard Road.

But he was caught in a criss - cross fire of motions as the council, minus one member, looked for a vacation - free full board meeting to consider rezoning.

The Environmental Impact Report had to be cleared before the zoning request could be considered. Wrangling through a half dozen 2-2 votes, council finally agreed to continue the matter to July 11 when Councilman Bill Herlihy will be present.

Binkley wants to build 28 units where only 23 would be permitted otherwise. Two weeks ago council had him add six parking spaces to appease a split city council. But this week, council members Frank Brandes and Joyce LeClaire opposed the larger developmnent in spite of the additional parking spaces.

The two said the extra five units could seriously impact air quality and traffic in the residential neighborhood.

"I feel very strongly about this item," said Brandes. But he does not want to deny Binkley the full board vote, so he agreed to wait until Herlihy returns.

Both Mayor Robert Philcox and Vice - mayor Ken Mercer said they could not see any major difference in adding five more units.

The council is also stalled on the legalistics of their 2-2 vote.

City Attorney Ken Scheidig said he is not sure if the tie "essentially tables" Binkley's request, or sends the would - be developer back to square one.

He promised the council he would research the question in the coming week.

New look proposed for Mission Park

PLEASANTON — Mission Park on the city's southeastern edge will gain an apartment house, a handful of "garden court" homes, and 27 traditional single family houses if tentative plans are approved by the city's design review committee and planning department.

But the developers will have to wait their turns for sewer connection permits, even if the projects are approved by the boards.

Kismet Constuction, Inc. wants approval for a 35-unit apartment complex at the southwest corner of Sonoma Drive and San Carlos Way.

The complex would be two and three-stories tall with a maximum height of about 30 feet.

The city's Design Review Board will check the plans at its July 13 meeting.

Savco Construction will present its plans for eight "garden court" homes on less than one-acre on Sonoma Drive between Junipero Street and developed mutliple lots to the north.

The firm will ask the city Planning Commission to rezone the land from "multiple residential" to a "planned unit development district.

Five of the eight "garden court" homes would front on Sonoma Drive, and three on Junipero Street. They would be built with "zero lot line setbacks," and be single-story homes.

Beratlis - Byrd Enterprises will ask the planning commission to approve a tentative map to subdivide 6.3 acres into 27 lots between San Antonoi Street and the Catholic cemetery at the ends of San Juan and San Carlos Ways.

The lots "would conform in size to existing single family development to the north of the site," according to the city's planning staff.

The detached homes would be priced between $50,000 and $80,000.

All three applications will be heard July 13. Kismet Construction leads the parade at 6:50 p.m., with the others following at the planning commission's 8 o'clock meeting.

Negative Environmental Impact Reports have been filed on all three projects.

Public comment will be accepted through July 5.

Mandatory bargaining

Bill fails, mayor delighted

LIVERMORE — "I'm delighted," exclaimed Mayor Helen Tirsell yesterday when she learned of the recent defeat in the state senate of a bill that would require her city to enter compulsory and binding arbitration with police and fire employes.

SB 164, by Senator David Roberti, was defeated June 23 on a 16-20 vote.

That legislation was opposed by the executive committee of ABAG, the Alameda County Mayors' Conference and every other committee I serve on," said Tirsell.

"I lobbied pretty hard against it," she added. "It was a terrible precedent."

The legislation was opposed by the League of California Cities, which withdrew an "appropriation" amendment that could have made SB 164 a two - thirds vote bill and delayed the voting until after the current recess.

With the bill's defeat, Roberti successfully sought a motion to reconsider at a later date, but the bill was placed in an "inactive" file.

Tirsell noted any required salary boosts for fire or police, as a result of such binding arbitration, would not be compensated by the state because of a disclaimer in the legislation.

"It would take away the right of local officials to determine salaries," she said.

Michigan adopted the procedure in 1969, she said, and "the number of strikes by safety employes almost doubled the following year."

Cut truck traffic

Alameda County officials monitored gravel truck traffic along Pleasanton's First Street to the quarries last week and may have come up with a plan to eliminate at least a third of that traffic.

The big rigs could be routed through Rhodes and Jamieson property and cut off about three to four minutes more travel time than any other proposal to get traffic off First Street.

It would require cooperation among all the gravel extractors in the area, plus the railroads.

Grand jury picks

Five Valley residents are among 30 nominated for the 1977-78 Alameda County Grand Jury.

Maxine Branch of Pleasanton, Linda Jeffrey of Dublin and James McFarlane, Wilma Holbrook and Arthur Henry of Livermore are the Valley nominees.

Jeffrey is a member of the Murray School District board of trustees. McFarlane served on the Livermore Unified School District board of trustees for eight years. Holbrook has been active in Republican Party club activities. Henry is a personnel administrator at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and served on the Valley Memorial Hospital board of directors.

Tull says he'll fight Livermore traffic arrest

LIVERMORE — Paul Tull, leader of the recall movement against city council members, yesterday pledged in municipal court to continue fighting a traffic charge which kept him in Santa Rita Jail over the weekend.

Tull was arrested Friday evening as he drove along East Avenue near Buena Vista, at a rate too slow for a trailing police patrol car. After following him for what Tull said was about three miles, the two officers — the same ones who removed him from a city council meeting June 6 for continuing to speak when gaveled down — pulled him over.

The outspoken 60-year-old longtime Livermore resident refused to sign the ticket which charged him with driving too slow and possessing two licenses. Although it doesn't imply guilt, Tull said he was threatened with jail three times if he didn't sign. "It goes against the Constitution," he said yesterday.

Judge Mark Eaton called Tull's name, and sighed, "Paul, what are you doing in custody?"

Judge Eaton explained that he would have to stay in jail unless he signed the complaint, saying it was no more than a receipt. Spending a day in jail is the equivalent of a $35, so he could plead guilty and face no further punishment. But Tull was persistent.

Clutching his "Recall" campaign hat, he insisted on going ahead with a trial. Judge Eaton set Aug. 3 at 2 p.m. for the charges to be heard.

Dublin man stabbed; suspect arrested

LIVERMORE — A 20-year-old Dublin man is in satisfactory condition in Highland Hospital in Oakland after being stabbed during a struggle Sunday at an Ora Avenue home. A suspect was arrested shortly after the incident.

Police responded to reports of several men fighting at the corner of James and Ora streets about 4 p.m. Sunday. Residents at an Ora Avenue home signalled to officers, who found an injured man there.

According to police, witnesses said a man became angry and began "swinging" a knife. Mark E. Gutierrez of Bandon Drive in Dublin stepped in to calm the man and was stabbed once in the lower right back. He was taken to Valley Memorial Hospital.

As Officer Barry Foye drove two witnesses to the police station for questioning, the citizens identified a pedestrian as the assailant.

Police said Jerry Melendez Morales, 20, of 1158 Olivina in Livermore had a four-inch knife in his possession when stopped. He was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Gutierrez was transferred to Highland Hospital where he is listed in satisfactory condition.

Four persons arrested following party on North O

LIVERMORE — One police officer sustained minor injuries and four persons were arrested when police tried to quiet a party on North O Street for the second time Sunday morning.

According to police, Officer Donn Neher attempted to coax a man from an alleyway between two houses about 3 a.m. Sunday where he heard a woman crying. When the man stepped out, he allegedly turned around and slugged Neher in the chest knocking him to the ground and then hit him in the eye. The two struggled until a police officer pulled them apart.

Neher reportedly received minor cuts and bruises, sustained a torn uniform and a broken wristwatch as a result of the fight.

Four persons were booked in connection with related incidents that night. William Joseph Garcia, 19, of 429 North O St. was booked on suspicion of battery on a police officer and resisting arrest; Eddie Dominguez Naval, 21, and Gordan Ray Naval, 19, both of 457 James St., were booked on suspicion of battery on a police officer; and Harriet Dominguez Naval, 43, also of the James Street address, was booked on suspicion of resisting arrest.

Man attackted for no apparent reason

LIVERMORE — Three men beat up a South J Street resident with no cause Friday evening, police reported.

John Michael Sayer told police he was walking into his house when three men in a pick-up truck drove up and called at him. As he walked up to the passenger door, the door swung open, flattening Sayer.

Three men jumped out, saying "You kicked my car," and began kicking and beating Sayer. They drove off in an unknown direction.

Sayer had a bloodied face but no serious injuries. There are no suspects.

The kids of summer

The excitement of new summer recreation programs showed on the faces of youngsters in Livermore yesterday. At left, 16 month old Sarah Bossler and Mommy Allison braved the waters of May Nissen Pool in a special tot water orientation program sponsored by Livermore Area Recreation and Park District. Designed for children ages one and two, the course acquaints the youngsters with water, how to enter and exit pools, walk in shallow water, learn breath control and become confident in independently submerging themselves in the water. Above, a group of youngsters pretend to be gorillas and crocodiles at Camp Little Acorn (Veterans Park) while they sneak up on an LARPD counselor. The game, "dark jungle, light jungle," is a take off on the "red light, green light" game where the children must freeze when the leader turns with the proper signal.

Three Dublin firms lose state licenses

SACRAMENTO — Three Dublin-based businesses have come under the disciplinary gun of the State of California's Consumer Affairs board.

In a report of disciplinary activities released May, 1977 the following businesses ran afoul of the Contractors' State License Board in particular and the Consumer Affairs board in general.

Mason's Electric, 6693 Spruce Lane received an indefinite suspension effective March 22.

The contractors' state license board stated the electric company abandoned a project without legal excuse, failed to complete a project for the price stated in the conract, failed to comply with provisions of the Contractors' License law and ommitted prescribed information from a home improvement contract.

August Industries, Inc., doing business as Imperial Pool Plastering, 6349 Scarlett Court had their contractors' license revoked, effective April 15, 1977, according to the report.

They were charged with willfully disregarding plans and specifications and/or failing to complete the job in a good and workmanlike manner, failing to complete a project for the price stated in the contract and failing to comply with all sections of the Contractors' License law.

Imperial Pool Plastering, P.O. Box 2218 was named separately "because a different license was revoked," according to the report. The revocation was effective April 15, 1977.

The report states a disciplinary action is the penalty resulting from an Administrative Hearing. Probation, suspension of a license and revocation of a license are types of discipline.

Probation allows the licensee to continue in practice but the licensee's conduct is reviewed periodically.

Suspension of a license prohibits the licensee from any professional actions for a specified period of time and terminates automatically at the end of the period.

Revocation of a license is permanent but it may be reinstated if conditions leading to revocation have been eliminated.

All complaints with a licensee should be filed with the board or Bureau which licenses the party.

If you are still unsatisfied, contact the Department of Consumer Affairs at one of the following numbers. Sacramento, 916-445-3183; San Francisco, 415-557-0966; Los Angeles, 213-620-4360.

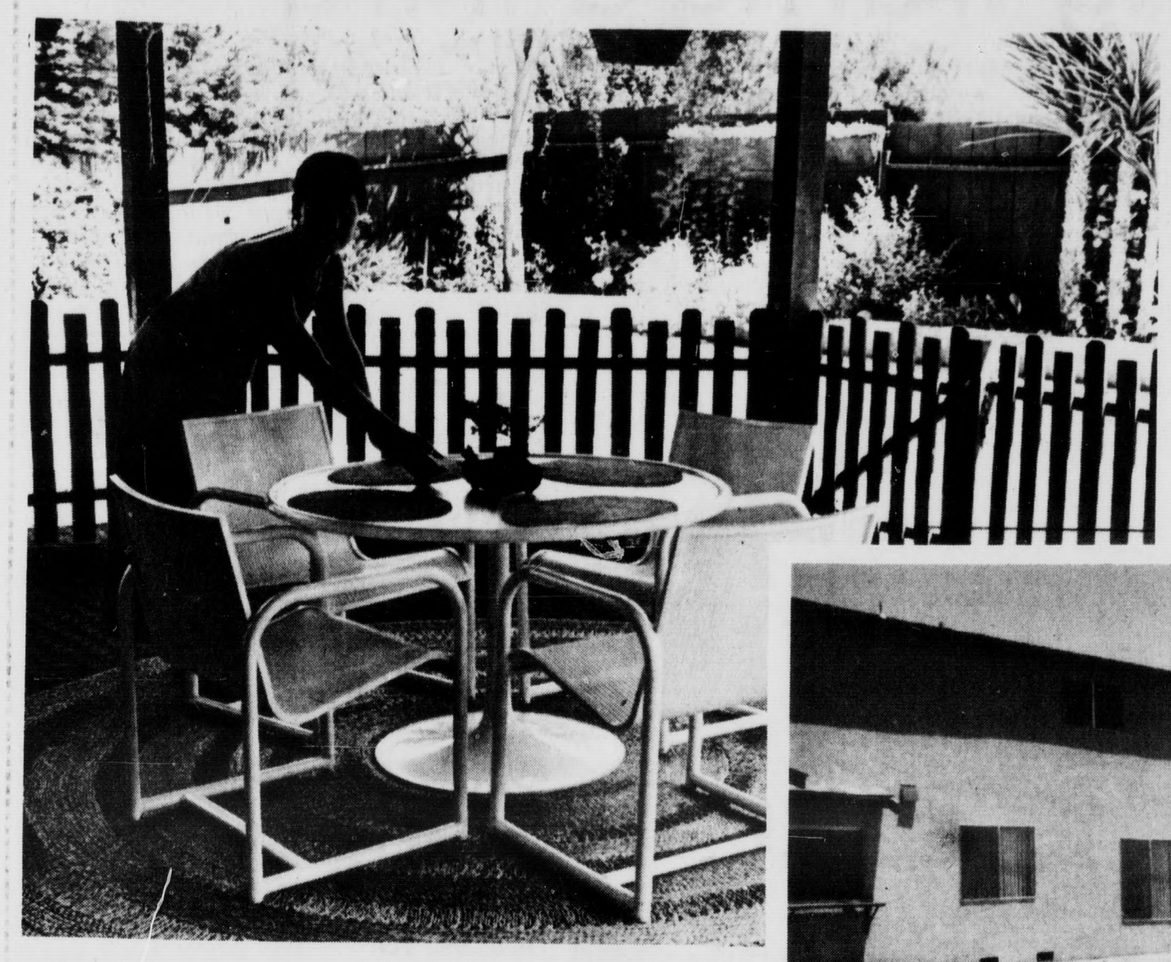
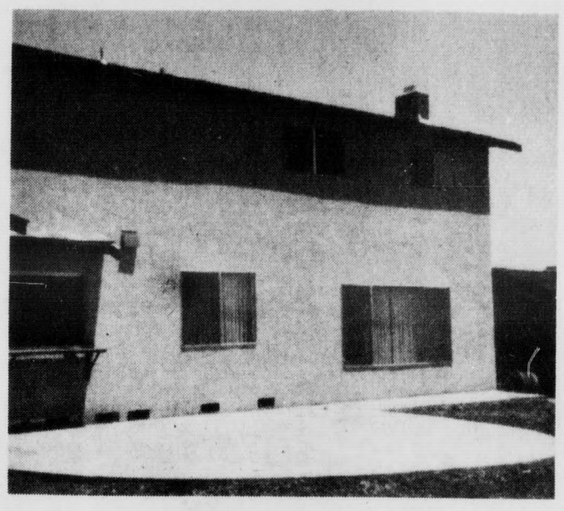
Home decorating: do-it-yourself at low cost





Barbara Harris (left) and husband Denny transformed their once empty backyard (see inset) into an entertainmnt center: glassed-in dining area, tiled bar and kids' play yard. Her secrets — do it low-cost, and make it a "step at a time" family project.

Barbara Harris is a magician of sorts.

She hasn't used any supernatural forces, but she has used imagination and some good old-fashioned elbow grease — to transform what was once a very average tract home into a very individual example of low cost, do-it-yourself interior decorating.

And what's more, Mrs. Harris, who now does some interior decorating consultations near her home in Dublin, insists that everyone can do it. That's without spending thousands of dollars and bringing any "expert" in from the outside, either.

She's used tricks like putting colorful sheets on the wall for wallpaper, installing a huge glassed-in patio, sunken tubs, mirrors and even an astro-turfed sandbox for the kids.

In her home, she says, the changes came "one step at at a time," and were done using inexpensive methods and the help of her husband, Denny and her father.

For instance, Mrs. Harris took a small bedroom with a tiny window and turned it into a spacious area with nearly one complete wall of window. And by using eight king-size sheets, she covered the wall (putting insulation underneath for a pillowy effect) and pleated curtains, completely transforming the room.

Outside, a backyard area which was once plain concrete and dirt has been made into a complete home entertainment center: built-in pool, astro-turfed play yard and sand box, a curving tile bar and outdoor dining area, surrounded by a huge glass wall, to protect from the wind.

The garage has been completely remodeled into a family room with wallpaper accents and shelves that Mrs. Harris put in herself.

This is an example, says Mrs. Harris, of what can be done at low cost. "We bought a couple of seconds — glass sliding doors without the frames and used them instead for a wall. It was very inexpensive and looks great."

Mrs. Harris gives a few pointers to would-be decorators: "Don't waste space. Use everything you have and make it convenient." As an example, she shows closets, where she's installed shelves everywhere, stacking items. She's put stereos and a TV, and even all her kitchen appliances in cupboards and cabinets "to get them into places where they're convenient to use, but out of the way."

"Look through garages and attics for those hidden treasures you can use in decorating," he says. And she points to a beautiful cabinet in her dining room — what used to be an old console TV cabinet, refinished, redone with mirrors and a large slate top — which looks like it is worth a bundle.

Mrs. Harris is unabashed about where she gets her ideas. "From magazines. Everyone should keep a book of magazine ideas they like. Sooner or later, they can get around to working on those ideas."

She advises: Buy picture frames at places like garage sales. They're cheap and you can spray paint them." Then, she says, arrange them with family photos for a large, attractive wall display.

For the person who comtemplates an inexpensive overhaul on the family home, she tells how she does it on professional consultation jobs: "Take every picture off the wall, and everything out of the closets." Get a friend to help and provide another opinion, she adds, then go to work. "Decide what you like, what you need and what you have that you can change."

Then, she says, get rid of what you don't want, and work "one step at a time — don't think too far ahead" to make your home the way you want it.

Be prepared for Mexico

If you're planning a vacation in Mexico this summer, better give a thought to your auto insurance needs, and check the running condition of the car before you go.

Mexico honors only automobile insurance policies written by a company based in Mexico. A Mexican auto endorsement attached to your regular policy which protects you at home is not sufficient when you cross the border.

Failure to obtain auto insurance through a Mexican company could result in some unpleasant consequences — like a stay in a Mexican jail, or impoundment of your car if you get in an accident, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

Agents of Mexican insurance companies are found in virtually all of the American cities on or near the border.

From them, buy some special tourist auto policy, which costs about $10 to $25 for a week's stay, depending on the value of the car and the extent of coverage purchased.

MY FAVORITE THING AT THE FAIR

I can barely wait to go to the fair this year. My very favorite thing to do at the fair is to have my handwriting analyzed by computer.

Last year, two different computers scanned my scribbling to try to figure me out.

I signed my name with much aplomb, and watched fascinated as the shining metal machine with the spinning reels made an appraisal of my innermost personality, by merely perusing my signature.

My large loops denoted imagination. My open letters showed I was willing to talk. My high loops imbued me with idealism. I was totally unmasked. It was embarrassing.

But I thought philosophically that regardless of what it said, I must be prepared to face the truth about myself because here was science. And with science we can overcome our shortcomings, regardless of our sloppy handwriting.

And sure enough, the readout went on to say, "You are brave, and can take the truth, bitter though it may be." I'll buy that.

Oh, but computers can be kind. A great slant to the right in my writing means I have great compassion, not that I am over-emotional. Deformed letters mean I have had a bad day, and am tired, not that I have criminal tendencies. Disjointed, separated letters mean I am psychic and intuitive, not that I have gone bananas. Messy letters are interpreted to be an expression of the creative personality, not merely a sign of recklessness.

Accurate as the read-out card was, as it went on to say all those factual interpretations like intellectual, a faithful friend, kind to animals, loved by babies, inventive, a good cook, likes to crochet. I don't understand how the computer went wrong on one point: "A great athlete, should enter the Olympics as soon as possible." Oh, outstanding maybe, but great? But, if it's there in my signature, who can dispute science?

A rival computer, vying for the handwriting analysis trade, offered to slip me my horoscope on the side, at no extra cost. I accepted, and found out "Aquarius is entering her age. You are on the brink of greatness." All us Aquarians knew this all ready, being psychic souls, but it was reassuring to read the official scientific word about it straight from the computer.

However, I had some reservations about this second computer. It seemed less scientific than the previous one. For one thing, it didn't whir quite as much trying to come up with my answer, and its answers were of a more immediate nature. "The third button down on your blue sweater is about to come off. Your lipstick is smeared, and you have mustard on your face from eating that hotdog."

Does my signature actually reveal all this about me? (as I wiped the mustard off my face with my sleeve). Or was I correct in thinking that I glimpsed for a fleeting second, as the attendant opened the metal door of the machine to place my handwriting sample inside, a little man at a typewriter, frantically pecking out answers?

And I have to admit I wondered a bit when I read: "You're a cute kid. Meet me behind the corn dog booth and we'll take in the pig judging together."

But my belief in science is unperturbed. After all, if you can't believe a computer, who can you believe?

Is your baby ok?

Once your baby begins to talk, it's a whole new (and noisy) world. But what is the normal rate for learning to speak? And if your child is not progressing at the normal rate, what should you do?

This is the focus of a booklet from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "Learning to Talk" explains the usual speech development of children and how they should progress at various ages. It points out danger signs to watch for, and where to get help if you suspect your child has a problem.

For your copy of "Learning to Talk," send 80 cents to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 106E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Chance to cut rig traffic a third

County officials held some time trials in Pleasanton recently and though they were not as fast as the National Hot Rod Association finals, they might help eliminate at least a third of gravel truck traffic from First Street.

The "racers" were driving the big gravel truck rigs that throw occassional rocks at motorists and pound the pavement down, frighten school children and freak out anyone sensitive to noise.

They made the traditional First Street run, then ran through the Kaiser and Rhodes and Jamieson properties. Rhodes and Jamieson came out as the quickest route — by three or four minutes — so now the Alameda County traffic experts are working on a plan to route the Cal Rock and Lone Star trucks through the Rhodes and Jamieson property.

Problems still abound. It may be necessary for Lone Star to build a frontage road parallel to Stanley Boulevard for a half mile so that special turn lanes won't have to be created to get the trucks on the Rhodes and Jamieson Road.

There's also the matter of a signal installation on the railroad tracks. A traffic signal must be hooked up to all of the many parallel rails so truck drivers are warned of trains. The railroads traditionally are slow on these things, but Supervisor Valerie Raymond has said a Public Utilities Commission official is confident something can be worked out.

There also is the problem of liability insurance for trucks passing on Rhodes and Jamieson's road. Raymond thought that the two firms to be benefitted, Lone Star and Cal Rock, might pay some reasonable fee since they will be benefitted with a shorter trip to the north anyway.

The route, if and when it becomes available, won't remove all trucks from First Street. Trucks headed for the direction of San Jose still will use First Street because there is no alternative.

Raymond backs compromise bill on farm development

A bill which travels the middle of the road on controlling urban development in prime agricultural areas has the backing of Valley Supervisor Valerie Raymond.

Raymond thinks that Senate Bill 1003 is the best compromise between having the state run the whole show and seeing local government control it all.

In the past, those were the two extremes debated in the Legislature, with recently departed (for Washington) Assemblyman Charles Warren espousing strong state powers and Assemblyman Daniel Boatwright taking up local control. Boatwright, who lives in Concord and represents the San Ramon Valley, too, has co - authored a bill which would nearly shut the state out of the process and leave most of the power to local government. The state's Board of Supervisors association has endorsed Boatwright's bill.

But Raymond thinks the middle of the road is important on an important state - wide issue like preservation of agricultural lands. She likes SB 1003 because it gives the state ultimate decision making power, but requires significant input from a panel of government planners, ranchers, and farmers.

This broadly - based commission in effect would become the overseer of the agricultural lands program.

Regulations for the plan would be adopted by April 1, 1978, and they would include the projected need for land for urban growth through 1990.

Another point covered by this plan would be procedures for identifying prime agricultural land and exclusion from that category based on investment in the "urban infrastructure," according to an Alameda County planning department report on SB 1003.

Raymond told other supervisors last week she favors the bill, but Supervisor Joseph Bort, whose district includes Castro Valley, said he had reservations about some of its features, though he did not elaborate.

Securing an endorsement for SB 1003 from the board appears to be a moot point for Raymond now, after hearing from county staff that the bill is not expected to go anywhere in the Legislature in this session.

Battered bill

A state bill to fund shelters for battered women around the state saw its money appropriation increased by 40 per cent recently.

The Sentate Finance Committee boosted the bill's original allocation from $180,000 to $280,000 and raised the funds for monitoring the pilot program from $20,000 to $30,000.

The bill would back six shelters around the state, two each in southern, central and northern California. The Bay Area is expected to get one of the centers with Alameda County in the running for that one.

SOME TIMELY TIPS ON HOW TO LIFT

There are two million disabling accidents each year in industry. Material-handling accounts for the greater number of serious injuries. The direct cause of this type of injury is, in the greater percentage, incorrect use of the muscles in lifting. This results almost invariably in strained backs. The purpose of today's health column is to summarize the chiropractic profession's industrial accident experience and to point out how to prevent the accident before injury can occur.

First we must consider HOW NOT TO LIFT. The tendency of most people is to stoop over at the waist with back horizontal, or even lower, arms outstretched, pulling an object up like a derrick. The load is out away from center of gravity of the body.

Muscles of the spinal column and back are mainly to support the body in a standing "column" position. They are not to lift the whole trunk from a horizontal "beam" position to the upright — especially with a heavy load hung far out at the end! Such a lifting position results in sprained back muscles, pulled ligaments, and sacroiliac strains.

Now we will consider HOW TO LIFT. First, if the object to be lifted is too large or heavy, get help. Do not try it alone. Otherwise, get up close with feet to each side of the load, bend knees and squat down in front of it with back held up toward vertical position. Get a secure grip under center of the load with arms close to the body and straight as possible. Here is the secret — it is the large, heavy muscles of the buttocks, thighs, and legs, which are strongly attached to the skelton, that do the lifting. In this position the leverage of the legs, spinal column, and shoulders is far more efficient, and by leaving arms at full length, back upright and relaxed, you can push up slowly and easily to a standing positon.

Remember: Don't lift (1 stooped over; (2) with bent back; (3) off balance (4) with outstretched arms. Do lift (1) from squat((2) with bent knees; (3) with back straight; (5) with arms close.

For more information on HOW TO LIFT call Dr. R. J. Serafin DC at 846-4732 or write 60 Mission Dr., Pleasanton.

Wujek starts for Alameda

RICHMOND — Granada High School graduate Joey Wujek is scheduled to start at forward for Alameda County when it takes on Contra Costa in the first annual All-Star Basketball Classic at 8 p.m. at the auditorium here tonight.

The 6-6 athlete will join All- American Phil Barner of Fremont (Oakland) at forward. Greg Howard of Fremont (6-8) is the starting center. Mike Mendez of Berkeley (6-2) and Kevin Flaig of Washington of Fremont (6-4) will man the guard spots.

Despite the fact Alameda was hurt by the failure of stars Clifford Robinson of Castemont and David Cornelius of McClymonds to show up for practice it still rates as a solid favorite in the contest.

Barner is rated one of the top college prospects in Northern California and is a great outside shooter as well as a tough rebounder.

Wujek has been the big suprise of the Alameda camp. The ex-Matador is a good leaper and can rebound with the best.

Howard is not a great scorer but is another fine rebounder and an outstanding defensive player. He held 6-10 All-American Mark McNamara of Del Mar (San Jose) below his scoring and rebounding averages in the semi-finals of the Northern California Tournament of Champions.

Flaig, a converted forward, is a good team player and passer. Mendez was the sparkplug of Berkeley's third-place North Coast Section squad.

Amador Valley's Skip Mohatt and Berkeley's Paul Daniels coach the Alameda squad.

Going up against them will be five strong Contra Costa players, coached by Campolindo's Gary Cook and Barry Hart.

Northgate High sends two of its Diablo Valley Athletic League stars into the starting lineup: 6-5 forward Jim Swan and 6-3 guard Pete Richardson.

Kennedy High of Richmond landed two players on the starting five: 6-8 center Bert Bowers and 5-6 mighty-mite guard Ken Carter. Rounding out the Contra Costa starters is Salesian High's 6-7 forward Joe Doherty.

The second contest between the two teams takes place Thursday evening at Cal-State University at Hayward at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $2 advance and $3 at the door.

Mitchell, A's fall to Texas

If Bobby Winkles ever thinks of entering the funeral business, he can forget the formalities of an apprenticeship.

Winkles is getting enough practical experience managing the Oakland A's.

The once proud - and - mighty World Champions played dead again last night, falling quietly to the Texas Rangers, 5-2..

Ranger starter Mike Marshall, possessor of a degree in Kiniesology as well one in arrogance, allowed only four hits in six innings against the East Bay Powder-Puffs.

Marshall left after six innings because of a twisted knee. He gave up four hits and struck out seven, but walked no one.

Another former A's player, Paul Lindblad, finished up the final three innings, allowing only two hits.

The fourth was the only inning the A's escaped the strikeout bug.

But it wasn;t exactly your dream game for A's starter Paul Mitchell.

After being called up from Double-A ball last week and suffering the loss in a 12-1 defeat to Milwaukee Tuesday, the Pleasanton resident figured to last more thean the 2.2 innings he hurled against the Brewers.

He didn't.

After no-hitting the Texans the first two innings, Mitchell surrendered a single to former A's shortstop Campy Campaneris leading off the third.

After being sacrificed to second, Campy scored on a Toby Harrah single.

Moments later, Claudell Washington gave former boss Charlie Finley by slapping a Mitchell fast ball 415 feet over the centerfield fence, which gave Texas a 3-0 lead.

Juan Beniquez followed with a walk, which sent Mitchell to the showers and possibly come closers back to Chattanooga.

The A's awoke the dozing crowd of 13,024 in the fifth inning, temporarily awaking themselves.

Tony Armas tripled to score Manny Sanguillen with the A's first run. Willie Crawford, who scraped the moss off a seldom-used bat to stroke a third-inning single, plated Armas with an infield grounder.

A run each in the eighth and ninth were scored by the Rangers, with the tally in the ninth coming on a bases-loaded walk.

It was a victorious debut for Billy Hunter, named earlier in the day as Texas' fourth manger of the year.

Tonight the A's send George "Doc" Medich against veteran Gaylord Perry in a 7:30 half-price contest.

Cubs problems at full steam

SAN LEANDRO — The woes of managing a semi-pro baseball team came to a full boil Sunday for Tri-Valley Cubs General Manager John McCuaig and his field manager Bryan Billy.

The Cubs, originally scheduled to play a California Baseball Association doubleheader with the Oakland Ravens at Dublin High School, had to make a last-minute switch to San Leandro's Marina High, the home park of the Ravens, because of poor Dublin field conditions.

The Cubs found the sorroundings unfriendly in dropping both ends of the twin-bill, 11-8 and 11-4.

While Billy was having his problems finding a suitable lineup to fend off the bat-cracking Ravens, McCuaig had nothing but bitter remarks for the Dublin field situation.

"It's like dried adobe out there," he said. "You slide into second base, catch and ankle, and break it."

McCuaig, who personally mowed the lawn at 7:30 in the morning at the Dublin High diamond two weeks ago in their doubleheader with the Oakland Expos, is fast looking forward to the switch to the Dublin Sports Grounds, where the fields are maintained all-year round and not overlooked once school lets out.

"They don't cut the grass," explained McCuaig of the Dublin High field, "and the sprinkler stick to the ground, which floods the field. The high schools don't seem to want to take care of it."

The Cubs switch to the Dublin Grounds July 3 with a doubleheader against San Francisco's Galu Realty.

Meanwhile, the Cubs couldn't keep their own men on base and failed to keep the Ravens off the bases in Sunday's twin-killing.

The first game saw homer runs hit by Dean Busch, a two-run shot, and Jim Florence, a three-run whacking in the ninth inning, go down the drain as Oakland cracked 16 hits off hard-luck losing hurler John Prieto.

Prieto, who fanned 12 men and walked just one, gave up triples to Kenny Robinson and Ron Lundy in the three-run third inning, while surrendering consecutive singles to James Atkins, Oscar Hopper, Ron Mingo, Gerald Smith and a double to Robinson as the Ravens wrapped up the win with a four-run eighth inning.

The Cubs, who took a brief 2-1 lead in the second stanza on Kirk Peterson's two-run single, received Busch's shot in the eighth after a Mike Cary single and Florence's homer in the ninth after a Raven error and Krikorian's walk.

Oakland lefthander Bob Moody, who scattered 11 hit to pick up the win, picked three Cubs off first base in the fifth inning.

In the second game, Bob Stoddard's bloop doube with the bases loaded in the third inning temporarily tied the game at 3-3, but Ron Mingo's two-run homer in the fifth put the Ravnes ahead for good. They added four runs in the sixth off of losing pitcher Scott Ellis to take the easy win.

Florence and Bob Chapman stroked back-to-back triples in the seventh, but the Cubs could score only one run as Dave Manousos was out trying to steal and Carl Speck was picked off first base by winning pitcher Terry Ryan, a southpaw who fanned five and walked six enroute to the sloppy win.

'Quakes hit hard

SAN JOSE — There was frustration in abundance for the San Jose Earthquakes as they lost to the Tampa Bay Rowdies, 4-1, in North American Soccer League action last night at Spartan Stadium.

In a preliminary game, the District III Al Caffodio All-Stars Under-18 team (which included ten valley players) edged out Sreiburg of West Germany's Under-19 team, 2-1.

A crowd of 17, 612 the fourth sellout this season, saw the Earthquakes' record frop to 8-9, cementing their hold on last place in the Southern Division.

San Jose's only goal came with 23:10 left when Miro Pavlovic fired a free kick over the outstretched hands of Tampa Bay goalie Winston DuBose. It was Pavlovic's first goal as a 'Quake. David Robb and Derek Smethurst each booted goals after Pavlovic's tally to put the game away for Tampa Bay.

Just 3:42 into the contest, Tampa Bay striker Derek Smethurst fired a ten-yard shot over the head of goalie Borut Skulj for the first goal.

With three and a half minutes remaining, Smethurst's shot bounded off the barrier, which Rodney Marsh rebounded in from the right side, about six yards out.

Valley players on the District III All-Stars included Keith Clay, Brad Boldrini, Steve Blalock, and Mike Wilcox of Pleasanton. Livermore players on the squad included Billy Hunt, Kevin Burke, Mike Miller, Wes Settle, Mike Fields and Jim Lennon.

Boldrini scored the first District III goal. Burke had an assist on the second Al Caffodio goal by Fremont's Simon Cheffer.

The Earthquakes' next game is Saturday when they host defendinf NASL champions Toronto at 8 p.m. at Spartan Stadium. KXRX (1500-AM) will broadcast the game.

McCovey slams history

CINCINNATI (AP) — Willie McCovey belted two home runs in a 10-run sixth inning, including his 17th career grand slam to move ahead of Hank Aaron as the National League's all-time leader, powering the San Francisco Giants to a 14-9 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night.

Trailing 8-1 after three innings, the Giants bombarded Cincinnati pitching for four homers, two doubles and a triple, with recently activated reliever Joe Hoerner giving up his second grand slam in a week.

Prior to McCovey's grand slam, Hoerner had allowed the Giants to go ahead when the 40- year-old left-hander twice hit batters with the bases loaded.

Darrell Evans ignited the shelling with a triple off starter Jack Billingham. Gary Thomasson scored Evans with a sacrifice fly before the 39-year-old McCovey followed with his solo homer, his 12th of the year. McCovey thus became the first batter in baseball history to hit two home runs in the same inning twice.

Johnny Bench drove in four runs for the Reds with two doubles, one a bases-loaded shot in the first.

Evert topples Billie Jean

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Chris Evert played some of the best tennis of her life Monday to crush Billie Jean King 6-1, 6-2 for a place in Wednesday's semi-finals of Wimbledon's All-England championships.

By the end of a one-sided duel, wrapped up in a scant 48 minutes, Evert appeared a cinch to retain her title. For King, the 33 - year - old six-time Wimbledon singles champion, the humiliating defeat marked the end of a comeback bid after three knee operations. There was little sign of the sure-fire volleying which gained her those half-dozen titles between 1966 and 1976.

"She had no fire in her eyes," said Evert.

Betty Stove, the tall, angular Dutch player, hit her way past the No.2 seed, Martina Navratilova, beating the exiled Czech ace, who lives in Dallas, 9-8, 3-6, 6-1 in the biggest upset of the day.

To the delighted disbelief of the British fans, two of their players made the semifinals.

Virginia Wade eliminated Rosie Casals of Sausalito, Calif., 7-5, 6-2 and Sue Barker beat Kerry Reid of Australia 6-3, 6-3.

Evert's performance was best summed up by King herself.

"No excuses," she said. "Lets forget knees, ankles, toes, brains, everything else. She just played beautiful tennis. I don't think many players would have beaten her today."

Evert, 22, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., took command from the start. She drove deep into the back corners with heart-breaking accuracy and King, the most renowned volleyer in the women's game, was pinned to her baseline.

In fact, Chris went to the net more often. When she was there she was in control, and Billie Jean passed her only twice in the whole match.

The first set came and went in 18 minutes. In the first five games, King scraped together only eight points, and never more than two in one game. Then she held service.

Billie Jean's attempts to take command at the net were a total failure. Half a dozen times in the match Chris lobbed her — and she was too slow to turn and chase the ball.

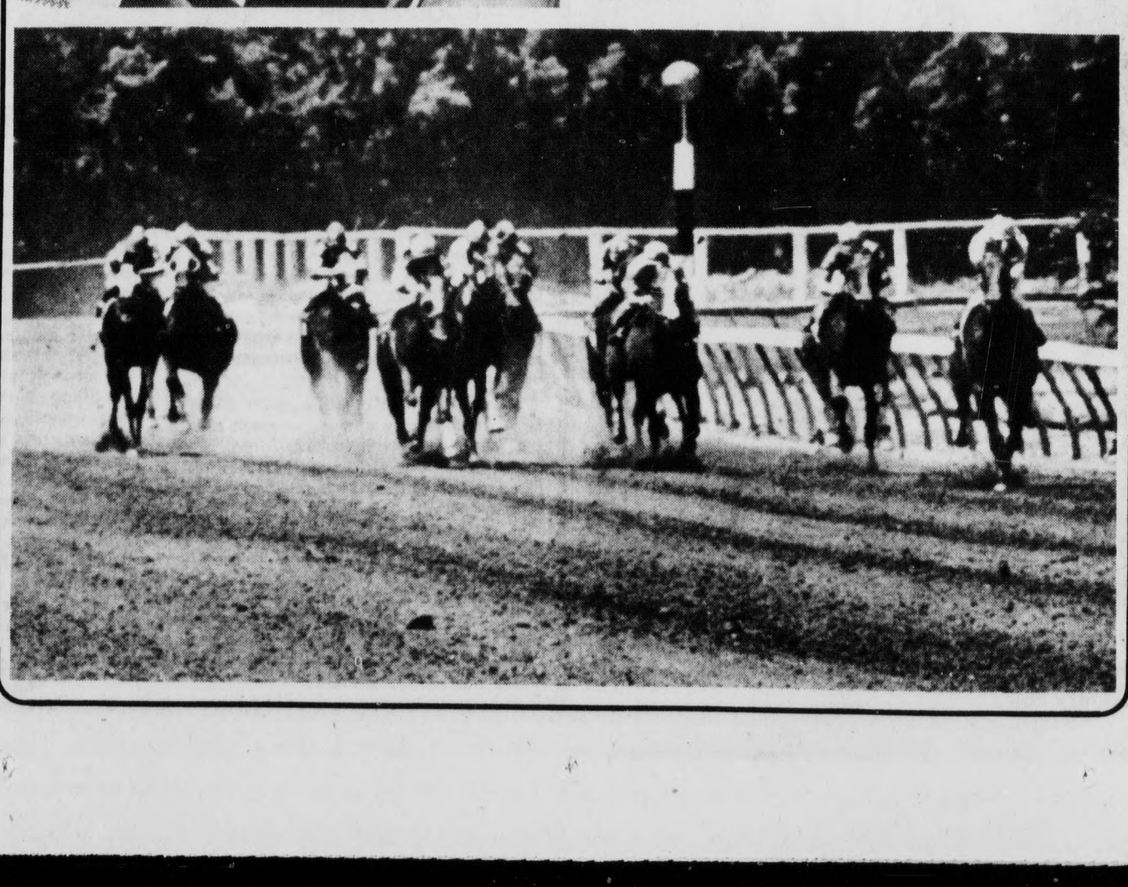
A day at the races

The races returned to the Alameda County Fair for the first time in two years yesterday, and the upsets popping up about as fast as the fans were coming in: fast. In photo at left, a fan anticipates the day's action and plots his strategy, while below the first horses of the day to run whip around the back stretch. For story and race results, see Dave Weber's insight on the following page.



Frustrated public quietly greets horses

Horse racing returned to the Alameda County Fairgrounds after a wait of two years, receiving a quiet welcome from the typically sparse Monday afternoon crowd which turned out to greet it.

In 1975, the Fair meeting had produced records in every attendance and mutuel handle category and had been ranked among the top three multi-breed race meets in the nation. Yet, last summer, the county employees strike — with its abundance of charges, counter-charges, pickets and injunctions — caused a water-torture cancellation of the scheduled 12-day meeting.

Every day, Fair secretary Lee Hall would consult his legal charts and cancel one 12-race card. Local racing fans watched the meet die a slow death.

The bulk of Bay Area racing support, however, comes from a coterie of urban bettors who follow the races from point to point on the circuit, thus there was little to-do when the horses shifted to Pleasanton yesterday; it was another day, another exacta.

And the silence, as the 6874 bettor/fans watched only one of its picks — a co-favorite at that — come in a winner, was eerie.

To the confirmed long shot bettor, the afternoon was well-spent.

Rica Vandy Bar paid $13.80 to win the second race and the scramble for chunks and slabs of the healthy $819,524 handle was on. Hapa Tex, $10.40 in the third, Royal Agent, $20.20 in the fourth; Schluzig, $17.40 in the fifth; Key Position, $21.60 in the sixth; Coley's Tiger, $25.60 in the seventh; Mark's Sister, $11.60 in the 10th and Regent's Flight, $14 in the 12th; completed the onslaught.

As can be expected in the early stages of the oft - unpredictable fair season, the one winning favorite came in the feature race, as the big purse reeled in the more consistent entries.

Sonoma Society and Dual Purpose went into the gate as the people's choice's in the $8500 Inaugural Purse after lightweight Yo Do Lady Who had been made the favorite in the morning line.

Yo Do Lady Who broke quickly from her number two post position under apprentice jockey Mel Atchison, but four-year old Shah Lea sprung ahead almost at once and stayed in front till the turn.

As the field headed into the stretch, jockey Bill Mahorney, the second - leading rider on the circuit thus far, brought Sonoma Society to the outside of Yo Do Lady Who and Shah Lea and won driving in 1:03 4/5.

The three-year old brown daughter of Catchpenny 2nd and Queen of Scots paid $6.20 as Mahorney recorded his 10th victory of the 13-day old summer campaign. He got his 11th win with his mount in the final race of the day, Regent's Flight, to move to within four triumphs of leader Jorge Aragon.

Aragon upped his total to 15 with a win aboard Faithful Run in the ninth race. Other than Mahorney, only Ross Allardyce, riding both quarterhorses and thorobreds, could win twice.

He scored with Rica Vandy Bar in the 350-yard second race and toured five and one-half furlongs aboard 9-1 winner Key Position in the sixth. Jane Driggers, meanwhile, tied James Riley for the quarterhorse lead with her victory aboard Coley's Tiger in the seventh.

Today, Ami's Image, who worked five furlongs in a brisk 1:01 4/5 yesterday on the notoriously slow Bay Meadows training track, leads a field of ten into the $8500 Chapati Purse for three-year old fillies.

Ami's Image stayed with the leaders, but finished third by two lengths in the Linita Stakes over the turf course at Golden Gate earlier in the month and romped by fifteen lengths in a shorter, one mile, allowance race at the same track.

However, the Chapati is run over six furlongs, a course that could favor speed horses, such as Crop O Gold, Mars Countess and Wither Thou Goest.

NOTES: Two local businesses had races named for them yesterday ... The Square Apple night club, the 9th ... Ozzie Davis Datsun, the 10th ... Maid of Pleasanton, and Alameda County, Jori Alexander, passed out some winning flowers.

Dublin soccer team trip in fiscal jeopardy

Representing the entire state of California in the Calgary Soccer Invitational this weekend would be quite an honor.

Failing to make the trip because of lack of funds would be a tragedy.

But that's what's facing Dublin United's Under-10 girls' soccer team.

They have been invited to the Calgary Tournament as the only California representive. Dublin United earned the invitation as a result of finishing second to Plesanton United in the State Cup.

The team needs $2,600 to make the trip. Right now, according to coach Ruth Lame, the team has raised about $2,300 or $2,400.

"We've done a lot of things to raise the money," Lame admitted. "We've had flea markets, sold bumper stickers and done about eight or nine other things.

Time is running out fast on the Dublin squad because the team must leave Thursday for Calgary.

"If we don't get the money through donations the parents will have to pay the rest," Lame went on. "However, the community has been very helpful so far and we'd appreciate some more help."

What is so remarkable about this year's Under-10 Dublin team is that none of the girls have ever played Al Caffodio soccer before.

Dublin United has finished second in several tournaments this past year, including the Fresno Tournament, the Washington Birthday Tournament and the Commissioner's Cup.

Lame attributes the team's outstanding season to "just excellent talent.

"We's just got a lot of good players who have learned fast," she said.

There are 12 players on the team.

They include Dana Harmon, Judy Vonheeder, Mary Barnes, Kim Klhler, Donna Tomerlin, Torri Walton, Shannon Kennedy, Jenny Tucker, Beth Murphy, Kathy Bondi, Kaari Grove and Molly Henderson.

Defense has been a strong part of the Dublin success this season. Bondi is the team's goalie and has played outstanding ball.

"I don't think anyone, except for Pleasanton, has scored more than two goals against us," Lame remarked. "Everybody has done just a great job."

Most of the teams in the Calgary tournament will be from Canada but Lame feels the team has an excellent chance of doing well.

"I think we can win it," she admitted. "Yes, I think soccer in our area is superior to that in most other areas and Canada."

Hopefully, Dublin United's team will have a chance to show the people in Calgary just how goof valley soccer has become.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband has always taken great pleasure in giving me money and, of course, I don't object. My former boss offered me a job. I'd like very much to take it and I didn't expect any objection from my husband since it hardly threatens his ego. He became very upset when I mentioned it and said that if I took it, he wouldn't feel the same about me sexually. This is so absurd because he's not jealous of my former boss. He knows I'm not interested in him. He said, "I just don't want you to make money. It wouldn't be the same if you did." I can't figure this out. Can you? — S.O.

DEAR S.O.: To some extent, money represents security and power to everyone, but I suspect, from your letter, that your husband gathers more security than most from being the one in charge of the purse strings. He may fear that without the control of money, he would be unloved or neglected.

Obviously, this indicates that he has a shaky sense of his own real worth. He's using money to buy affection. He sees his gifts to you as payments for love. If you have the money, the power, to buy your own gifts, he's afraid you may cease to love him.

This isn't as unusual as it may sound. For instance, husbands frequently, consciously or unconsciously, reward their wives for what they consider to be "good behavior" (and this often may be sexual) by buying them a little something special.

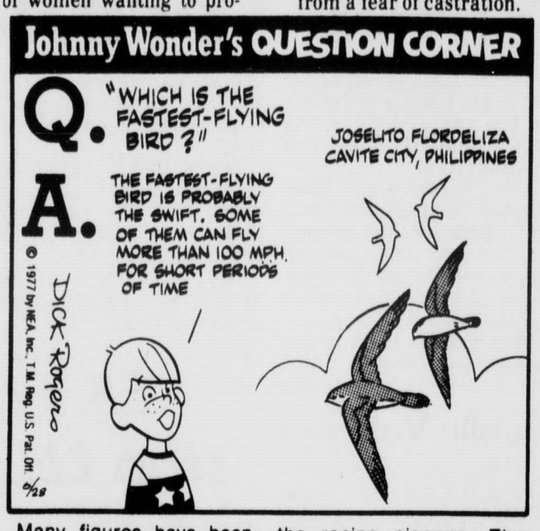
Not surprisingly, this may make the woman feel like a prostitute. She may become so accustomed to this that she forgets how to love and to give affection freely. She may feel that sex and love are commodities to be sold, and bargained for in marriage.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: A group of people in our town — my husband says they're homosexuals — want to make our beach a place for nude bathing. This is causing an uproar and some of the most unlikely people are in favor of it. A local minister says it's a healthy thing, as if the family that's nude together will be glued together. Two of the so - called pillars of the community have supported it for "business reasons." Though my husband accuses the homosexual community of fostering this, it isn't true. This is the major topic of discussion at gatherings. Many of the men are, openly or secretly, for it, but almost none of the women. Why? I don't believe it's just a question of women wanting to protect their children because many of them are single. — T.T.

DEAR T.T.: Though nudists deny it, there's a certain amount of exhibitionism in almost all campaigns for nudity. The most common reason for males to want to exhibit themselves is that in so doing, they're reassured of their masculinity. Obviously, the more insecure the man is, the more enthusiastic he's apt to be about opportunities to display himself.

By favoring nudity for himself, he is also encouraging women to exhibit themselves. Once they do, they again remind him of his own masculinity. I don't mean to deny the fact that men are also stimulated by viewing women's bodies. Genital exhibitionism is quite rare in women because they don't suffer from a fear of castration.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "WHICH IS THE FASTEST-FLYING BIRD?"
JOSELITO FLORDELIZA
CAVITE CITY, PHILIPPINES
A. THE FASTEST-FLYING BIRD IS PROBABLY THE SWIFT. SOME OF THEM CAN FLY MORE THAN 100 MPH FOR SHORT PERIODS OF TIME
DICK ROGERS
© 1977 by NEA, Inc., T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.
6/28

Many figures have been reported about the speeds of the fastest-flying birds. But not everyone agrees with these records because it is difficult to measure the speed of a bird in flight.

Although higher speeds have been claimed, the fastest speed reliably measured for any bird was that of the swift.

This small, streamlined bird with its long, narrow wings usually flies from 60 to 70 miles per hour. But some can fly more than 100 m.p.h. for short periods of time, and are probably the fastest-moving creatures in the world.

After the swifts, perhaps the fastest-flying birds are the racing pigeons. They have been known to fly 94 m.p.h.

The next-fastest fliers are such birds as falcons, ducks and geese, which can fly about 80 or more miles an hour.

And the tiny hummingbird can speed along at 55 m.p.h. Songbirds, such as sparrows and wrens, fly at speeds of 10 to 20 m.p.h.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a male age 59 and have trouble getting my bowels to move unless I take a laxative. Doesn't that sound to you like I have a lazy or inactive liver. As long as I can keep that bile flowing my bowels move all right. I have tried the high fiber diet that you have recommended but that doesn't seem to do any good.

The doctors say there isn't anything wrong with my liver or gall bladder but it sure doesn't seem to be doing anything unless it is nudged a little to get the bile flowing. Would you recommend seeing another doctor or what can a person do for a lazy inactive liver?

DEAR READER — Your doctors are probably right — that there is nothing wrong with your liver. More likely you are one of the many victims of the laxative habit.

What happens is that the laxative empties your bowel ahead of time. Then there will not be a movement again until it is filled. The lag leads a person to take a laxative again and soon that person is hooked on laxatives.

You need bowel training. I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. Follow that program every day and be patient and you may be able to overcome your problem. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Incidentally it is not necessary for everyone to have a bowel movement every day. That idea is the basis for many people getting started on the laxative habit to begin with.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read that receiving a bit higher dose of hormone medication after hysterectomy results in unwanted facial hair growth. I thought it was if you didn't take hormones. Please set me straight on this. I was 47 when I had a hysterectomy and took hormone pills one year after, then no more and I have a problem of facial hair.

DEAR READER — There are all kinds of hormones. The common female hormone, estrogen, and related estrogen compounds do not cause facial hair.

Women normally have hair on the face but it is usually very fine and not obvious. Under the influence of male hormone, testosterone, it may become heavier and more marked. That may make the natural fine hair on the upper lip unsightly.

Opening lead — K ♦

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We are accustomed to Italian players making really great plays. We usually think of Belladonna, Garrozzo and Forquet in that connection, but for sheer brilliance we have to award the plum to Oscar Bellantini.

He held the West cards in the European championships played in Dublin some years back. The last thing one would suspect when holding two aces and three kings would be to find himself on lead against a slam, but Bellantini did find himself in that position.

He didn't double and after long thought came up with the only lead to beat six. He played his singleton king of diamonds!

After that super brilliant lead the best South could do was to ruff two hearts in dummy, but he still had two hearts to lose.

With any other lead by West, South would bring the slam in since he would be able to ruff three of his hearts. Eventually, he would have to lay down his ace of diamonds and drop the king, but there would be no other play at his disposal and he would make it. He would still have to lose a heart, but that would be the only loser.

Pleasanton girl wins award

Barbara J. Rocereto of Pleasanton is one of 15 high school seniors nation-wide to receive a grant from the Ralston Purina Company in its first annual Employee Free Enterprise Scholarship Contest.

Daughter of Peter Rocereto of 7739 Applewood Way, she attended Foothill High School.

Miss Rocereto is one of ten fourth-place winners who received $500 each. She is the only student from California to receive an award.

The winning entries were chosen by a panel of independent judges, who made their selections from some 95 contestants from across the country. First through third place winners received their scholarship checks at an awards ceremony held Friday at Checkerboard Square in St. Louis, Mo.

Each contestant submitted an essay describing his or her perception of the free enterprise system and its benefits to our society. These essays were the primary measurement used in judging, but high school transcripts and teacher recommendations were also considered. High school seniors who are sons or daughters of employees of Ralston Purina Company and its subsidiaries were eligible to compete. High school seniors employed by the company were also eligible.

Speaking at the awards ceremony, Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, Ralston Purina's vice chairman of the board, said, "It is most encouraging to us to see that some of our brightest young people are interested and involved in our free enterprise system. Their personal comments and commitments to our free market system bode well for the future. We are proud to be able to play a part in furthering the education of these leaders of tomorrow."

EBMUD tells you how to read meter

OAKLAND — With a little practice, you too can learn to be a water meter reader and find out for yourself how many gallons of the precious liquid you are using daily.

In an informational workbook, East Bay Municipal Utilities District (EBMUD) suggests the following techniques for reading your meter dials.

The EBMUD booklet points out that most meters measure water in units of cubic feet. One cubic foot of water equals about seven and one-half gallons.

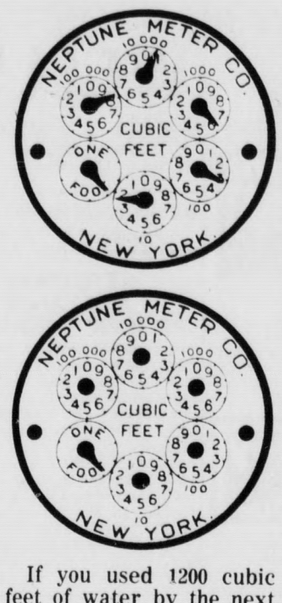
The Round-Reading Meter is the most widely used. It has several dials marked off in ten divisions. These dials are read much like a clock — except the hand on every other dial turns counter-clockwise. To tell which way any one hand goes, look to see which way the numbers are printed around the face of the dial.

To check the reading on the meter shown, begin with the "100,000" dial. Continue reading each dial around the meter to the "10" dial.

If the hand is between numbers, use the lower number.

The dials on the metered pictured here register 8, 0, 6, 3, and 2. These figures register 80,632 cubic feet. The "one foot" dial is to show the meter is working.

Since the charge for water is based on units of 100 cubic feet, the meter reader disregards the last two figures. He would record a reading of 806.



If you used 1200 cubic feet of water by the next time he reads the meter, the next reading would be 80,632 plus 1200 or 81,832 — 818 units, according to the EBMUD manual.

Your bill would be based on the difference in the two readings — or 12 units (8976 gallons).

Practice drawing hands on the dials of the second water meter pictured to indicated a reading of 32,164 cubic feet.

Try reading you water meter every day for the next week and record data.

Another type of water meter is called the "Straight-Reading Meter." It resembles the mileage-indicator in an automobile speedometer.

Drought impact for 3 years

SACRAMENTO — Californians can expect to feel the drought impact for three more years even if the state's rainfall in the next water year — Oct. 1 through Sept. 30 — turns out to be normal.

The State Department of Water Resources reported this projection in Drought Information Bulletin No. 24.

The bulletin states that many upstream reservoirs will not be filled quickly since they will have to be drawn down to supply water to reservoirs farther down their aqueduct systems.

For instance, in the State Water Project, Lake Oroville will have to share its water with the San Luis, Del Valle, Pyramid, Castaic, Silverwood and Perris reservoirs.

California's groundwater reserves are particularly critical since groundwater basins in most of the state were being overdrawn even in good water years.

Total surface reservoir water storage in the Central Valley dropped 265,000 acre-feet between June 6 and June 20 this year, according to bulletin No. 24.

Storage on June 20 was 10,825,800 acre-feet compared to a ten-year average for that date of 18,378,500 acre-feet.

Precipitation for June 6-20 at Yosemite station was 1.53 inches but very light for Crescent City (.04 inch), Shasta Dam (.03 inch), DeSabla (.17 inch), and Blue Canyon (.04 inch).

Sad story in year two of drought

On a hillside near the Pacific Ocean, sheep nuzzle the earth for a few dried blades of grass. A Bay Area hostess rents a portable toilet for a party and a hotel on Catalina Island asks guests to bring their own linen.

It's the drought California style — the effects of two years of unprecedented dry weather seeping into the lifestyles and landscapes of the nation's most populous state.

More than 100 cities and towns have been forced to impose mandatory water rationing, since rainfall for the 1976- 77 rainy season dropped to about half of normal for the second year in a row.

Officials warn that many of the state's 1,000 reservoirs could dry up. On the caked bottom of a Marin County reservoir a bridge covered for years by stored water bakes in the summer sun.

The marks of the drought are not always apparent at first glance. In Marin County, which imposed strict water rationing in February, tenacious native plants and trees create a deceptive veil of green.

But behind it roll brown lawns and withered gardens. The Nicasio Reservoir has dwindled to expose yards of cracked surface like a moonscape and the beds of small creeks and streams in the hills look like the bottoms of empty aquariums.

At Audrey Dodson's Mill Valley home, the sunburst locust out front bloomed this year, but the yellow clusters were tight and dull.

Mrs. Dodson and other customers of the Marin Municipal Water District can't spare much water for home landscaping because they are limited to 46 gallons per person per day. However, like many of her friends, Mrs. Dodson has kept her swimming pool full by buying a truckload of water.

A professional dog groomer, Mrs. Dodson spoke nostalgically of the days when she could hose off the cement floor of her workroom without a care. She remembers the time when she wouldn't bother to turn off the faucet if she had to dash to answer the telephone.

"I won't do that ever again," she said. "It's surprising the things you become aware of, how to conserve. I'm getting strong muscles carrying buckets of water to flush the toilet with. It's a nuisance and I hate it, but it's not a hardship."

Los Angeles, the centerpiece of Southern California, begins water rationing July 1. A 10 per cent cutback has been mandated because voluntary reductions didn't achieve the needed savings.

It's become a way of life

Beverly Hills, where water usually flows as freely as money, has hired a water cop to prowl the estate-lined streets and advise wasteful water users to mend their ways.

And in Hollywood, 20th Century Fox said they carefully review any movie scenes requiring rain and they are stressing shorter shampoos for the pampered hair of the stars.

West of Mill Valley in the coastal town of Bolinas, people say they always have treated water as a precious resource.

Last year, on the Fourth of July, the residents of the tiny hamlet tried to stop the normal influx of tourists by posting signs saying the town was closed because of the water shortage.

"We've always been short of water," said Ellen Sander, 33, as she sat with her 5½-year-old son Marin in a luncheonette on the town's dead-end main street. "We've been conserving for years, but the conservation habits we've built up are working."

Marin, eating his sherbet, tugged on his mother's sleeve and reminded her that "we don't flush when we pee."

Another town where people know the value of water is Palm Springs. Ironically, this desert city has fewer water problems than coastal and lakeshore communities.

The golf courses where the famous play are still lush and green and the swimming pools of the wealthy glisten in the hot sun. But city officials say the day is coming when residents may be asked to empty their own pools and use the municipal pool.

"People have been starting to conserve, but the drought hasn't changed the way things look," said secretary Cheryl Deitrick, 33. "Most people have rock yards and patios surrounded by cement decking. This area is programmed to little water. You just don't waste out here."

The mountains guarding most of California's 1,072-mile Pacific Ocean coastline turn golden every year by the end of the summer. This year they turned to parchment by June.

At Pebble Beach on the coast, native trees are still green, but the golf courses are yellowing and the unwatered polo grounds is turning into sand.

"Rationing is becoming a way of life," said Kathy Kraft of Monterey. "In some ways it's a good thing. People are realizing that our natural resources are not unlimited."
